DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

1. Claim 29 is objected to because of the following informalities: the seed layer cannot consist of silicon nitride. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 64-65 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Chakravorty et al. (U.S. Publication No. 2003/0168342 filed 3/12/2003).

Chakravorty shows the method as claimed in Figs. 3A-3F and corresponding text as: a substrate (300) having a first surface (315) and an opposing, second surface [0042]; and at least one via (305) extending into the first surface of the substrate and terminating short of the opposing, second surface and including solder that extends from the first surface [0043-0047] (claim 64). Chakravorty teaches an insulative layer (330) located between the conductive filler material (335) and the substrate [0046] (claim 65).

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments, see in the response, filed 9/14/2006, with respect to claim 25 have been fully considered and are persuasive. The rejection of claim 25 has been withdrawn.

5. Applicant's arguments filed on 9/14/2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. In regard to claim 64 the applicants argument directed to the conductive paste, the examiner views the "conductive paste" to be equivalent to a "solder paste". That being said Chakravorty anticipates claim 64.

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claims 25-32 are allowed.

7. Claim 66 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

8. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: the prior art, either singly or in combination fails to anticipate or render obvious, the limitations of:

...at least one via extending into the first surface of the substrate and terminating short of the opposing, second surface and including a seed layer comprising conductive material at least partially over a surface of the aperture, an annular conductive layer contacting the seed layer, and a filler material occupying a remainder of the via, the filler material circumscribed by and contacting the annular conductive layer, as required by claim 25.
